Re: Additional questions from ICIJ

Dear Mr. Fitzgibbon,

This responds to your email from 18 July 2019 where you had additional questions regarding the former Mauritius office of Conyers Dill & Pearman. As we previously mentioned, Conyers strictly adheres to the laws of all the jurisdictions in which we operate and complies with legally applicable standards issued by internationally recognised bodies.

Conyers assists clients who have lawful cross border interests both as lawyers and through the provision of corporate services and we have a fiduciary and legal duty to protect the confidentiality of all clients including communications with them. This particularly extends to commenting on any materials that may have been illegally obtained. For all law firms, strict adherence to this duty is obligatory.

Sincerely,

Christian Luthi, Chairman
